RULES OF THE EIGHTH FRANCOPHONE GAMES

Cultural competitions
Sports competitions
Design competitions
Following on from Morocco in 1989, France in 1994, Madagascar in 1997, Canada in 2001, Niger in 2005, Lebanon in 2009 and France in 2013, the Ivory Coast will be hosting the 8th edition of the Francophone Games, which will be taking place in Abidjan from 21st to 30th July 2017.

Focused on solidarity, diversity and excellence, this major sports, cultural and design event will once again offer French-speaking youth the opportunity to excel and compete in a spirit of exchange, sharing and discovery.

This document defines the rules and conditions of pre-selection and selection for each event in the Ivory Coast/Abidjan 2017 edition of the Games. Its purpose is to inform member states and governments and observers of the International Francophone Organisation (OIF) of the rules.

This document of rules is complementary to the “Registration guide” document.

These rules will then be repeated in full in the technical manuals which the CNJF will supply to states and governments for each discipline.

GENERAL RULES

1. General conditions of participation

a) Only member states and governments or observers of the OIF are authorised to register competitors in the cultural competitions, according to the conditions defined by the Comité international des Jeux de la Francophonie (International Committee Games – CIJF).

The cultural competitions must be a high-level event allowing young artists on the threshold of a promising career to have their talent recognised internationally.

b) Participants must:

• be citizens of member states or governments, or OIF observers;

• have the nationality of the state they represent, either through birth or through naturalisation obtained at least six (6) months before the Games, subject to the conditions stipulated in Item 5 of the statutes of the CIJF and the Rules of the Games which cover entries;

• be over 18 (born on 1st January 1999 and earlier) and under 35 (born on 1st January 1982 and later). For the singing, dancing, hip-hop (dance) and tales and storyteller competitions, the age limit applies to competitors who are singers, dancers and storytellers only and not to the musicians accompanying them and other accompanying persons (e.g. choreographer, technician).

c) Each participating state or government must register its delegation in compliance with the schedule defined in the "Registration guide" in points "II. Presentation of the different steps in the pre-registration and registration process” and “V. Provisional calendar”.

d) Each participating state or government is responsible for the international transport and insurance for its artists’ equipment and work.
2. Programme

The 8th Francophone Games include seven official cultural competitions.

3. Organisation of competitions

a) The competitions are governed by the rules set down by the CIJF.

b) All cultural competitions lead to a ranking. The material and technical requirements for the organisation and running of each competition are defined by the CIJF in liaison with the CNJF.

c) The CNJF undertakes to provide professional show and/or exhibition conditions corresponding to each artistic discipline.

d) The CNJF sends the technical file regarding the theatres or production sites to the states or governments one (1) year before the Games start.

e) For performing arts, the CNJF provides a working theatre. A general rehearsal shall be planned for. Each competitor in the same discipline has access to the stage for the same length of time. In addition, rehearsal venues are provided to groups until the day of their event.

f) Works by painters, sculptors and photographers must reach the CNJF on the site of the Games two (2) months (21st May 2017) before the Games start.

g) Literary works must reach the following address by electronic mail no later than 1st February 2017: cijf@francophonie.org

h) Competition organisation is directly controlled by the CIJF.
4. Selection and number of competitors

In reference to point II of the “Registration Guide”, pre-selection and selection phases take place in three steps:

a) In each event for which they are registered, states and governments will draw up a pre-selection consisting of three competitors (or troupes). Artists, who must present professional quality works or shows, shall be pre-selected according to the specific conditions of each state or government.

b) Regional juries made up of the CIJF and the OIF’s Diversity and Cultural Development Department (DDDC) shall visit the registered states or governments to carry out a pre-ranking of the national pre-selections.

c) The final selection for Ivory Coast 2017 shall be made by the CIJF, with the backing of the OIF's Diversity and Cultural Development Department and in the presence of the CNJF, taking into consideration all competitors entered forward and the number of places allocated for each event.

All artists selected must be present from the start to the end of the Games.

Artists registered for a competition cannot be members of the jury appointed to judge the productions of this competition.

For each competition registered on the Games programme, the maximum number of participants, per discipline and per delegation, is set as follows:

6. International juries

a) For each competition, the CIJF forms a jury composed of five (5) personalities from the artistic field and different nationalities. The president of the jury is appointed by the CIJF from these 5 members.

b) The list of winners of each competition is established by the jury in view of the specific rules drawn up by the CIJF and in accordance with assessment criteria instituted by the CIJF.

c) The CIJF delegate must be present at the competitions and jury sittings. This delegate is not entitled to vote.

d) The jury writes a detailed report of each final deliberation and the ranking of the five (5) finalists (at least) in each discipline, after the Games.

e) The CIJF remains custodian of each jury’s deliberations after the Games.

f) During the finals, the jury will have a maximum of six (6) minutes to deliberate and communicate the result.

7. Medal ceremony - Ranking

For each cultural competition, gold, silver and bronze medals and a certificate are awarded. These ceremonies are an integral part of the event in accordance with the conditions for each discipline. They take place on the competition site.

Special prizes and mentions may be put forward by the members of the jury under the guise of the CIJF.

The award ceremony, during which medals shall be awarded, must take place in compliance with the following directives:

• medals are only awarded by qualified personalities appointed by the CIJF in agreement with the President of the CNJF and its protocol division;

• Award ceremonies are an integral part of a competition’s time management. They must be programmed to take place in the presence of the audience. The personalities contacted to award the medals must be informed in advance. Their presence at the competition site must be verified by the protocol division;

• competitors ranked first, second and third take position, in uniform, on the podium opposite the Official Stands, while the Games’ hymn is played. The winner is slightly higher than the second place to his/her right and third place to his/her left. The winner’s flag is raised on the central mast and the flags of the second and third positions are raised on two neighbouring masts to the right and left of the central mast, facing the arena. While a shortened version of the national anthem of the winner’s state or government is played, the three competitors and spectators turn to the flags.

At the end of the competition, a gala evening, known as “winners’ night”, presents the winners of the cultural competitions and their works.

This ceremony is official and reserved in priority to delegations and participants in the Francophone Games; the public is also admitted.
8. Claims - Disputes

The international jury is responsible for ruling on all technical questions which give rise to a claim.

The CIJF is the supreme body in charge of settling all cases not covered by the powers of the international jury.

A case may be brought to the CIJF by:

• the President of the CNJF or his delegate,
• the Head of one of the delegations.

Its decisions cannot be appealed.

In order for a claim to be examined and deliberated by the CIJF, it must be submitted in writing within twenty four (24) hours after the event, and state the decision or the dispute giving rise to the claim in question.

9. Workshops - Activities

Workshops are designed to be friendly forums for meeting and exchange between artists, cultural and sport competitors, and between them and the public. The form and proceedings of workshops shall respond to the specific nature of each discipline in the competition, taking into account the conduct of the competitions and their timetable.

Several formulas are possible:

• workshop/design where the artist can work alone or with other artists, in an area open to the public designed for this purpose;
• workshop/activity where artists can present productions, techniques, their artistic approach in the form of conferences/demonstrations, film screenings, shows, etc.

All other proposals may appear in this activity programme. The conditions are established in agreement between the CNJF and the CIJF.

The selected artists must take part in the activity programmes and workshops planned in their area of speciality.

Artists are encouraged to present to the members of the jury a press kit or other document underpinning their career or approach.

They may be asked to take part, free of charge, in exceptional events organised as part of the Games.

Concerning visual arts and photography, the workshop is an integral part of the Games’ competitive events and leads to the creation of an individual or joint piece of work.
10. Pay

Competitors may not receive any fees throughout the duration of the Games, both within the framework of the competition and the activities, workshops or any other service they may have accepted to provide of their own free will under the guise of their state or government.

Visual arts and photography competitors are free to sell the work (or works) exhibited, subject to complying with exhibition rules until the end of the Games and with applicable customs laws.

Artists from other disciplines are permitted to accept any contract they may be offered during the Games, for a commitment after the Games.

They must mention, in this case, their selection or reward obtained during the Francophone Games.

The juries of the official competitions receive an indemnity from the CNJF, which will be established after consultation with the CIJF. The conditions shall be submitted prior to final acceptance by each official concerned.

11. Ownership and copyrights (see article 20 of the Statutes of the CIJF)

The works presented during the competitions, as well as those produced during the workshops within the framework of the Games, remain the property of their creator.

Taking part in the Games implies that the artists and designers forego payment by the CIJF and the CNJF of copyrights or other fees under their participation in the Games, from the moment they are selected by the CIJF.

The state or government presenting one or more artists or designers is responsible for ensuring that national legislation or obligations in terms of copyrights on their territory are complied with.

Any photographic reproduction of a work or part of a work for commercial purposes must be the subject of a special agreement between the artist or the designer and the requesting party.

However, the CIJF reserves the right to use, for promotional purposes, photographic and filmed and published reproductions of works presented at the competitions in such a way as to not damage the honour or the reputation of the creator of these works. It is agreed that the artists/designers and their works shall be identified in printed documents or in works registered by the CIJF and/or the CNJF.

The competing athlete, artist or designer authorises the CIJF and the CNJF to record on any audio-visual medium its performances carried out within the framework of the regular competition programme (sports competitions, cultural competitions, development activities, ceremonies) and the events programme as well as during the selection phases, without time limit and to mention their name.
12. Professional outcome and repercussions

To improve the quality of artistic performances produced at the Games, a prior selection shall be made in each state and government.

Taking part in the Francophone Games, if it is not the continuation of an artistic career which has already started, may be the beginning of a promising artistic career.

This is why the CIJF and the OIF may take steps with public and para-public bodies and private companies to support winners of sports and cultural competitions and development activities to encourage their promotion (participation in a tour or festival, participation in courses, exhibition in a museum or gallery, possibility to have their work published, etc.).

The Diversity and Cultural Development Department provides its support, via its different programmes and particularly the “circulation of artists and works” programme, to emerging states and governments and shall thus assist artists’ access to professional networks.

These possibilities are suggested and are not compulsory for any party. It is up to the athlete, team, artist, group of artists, designer or group of designers to follow up the offer presented to it through the CIJF Department. The final agreement, if there is one, ties the beneficiary (artist, athlete, designer) and those responsible (bodies, ministries, federations, private companies, etc.) for the offer.

Members of the jury shall be chosen from personalities who can contribute to promoting the value of the artists.

13. Reasons for disqualification

Any deviation from the general conditions of participation, the eligibility conditions or the obligations stipulated in the specific rules of each competition, as well as non-compliance with delivery time-frames for the works may lead to the CIJF disqualifying the artist or the group.
14. CNJF obligations

The purpose of the CNJF is to conduct the Francophone Games in compliance with the rules stipulated by the CIJF, notably by organising:

- reception, accommodation and catering;
- local transport;
- a media centre;
- the events, including opening ceremony, winners’ gala ceremony and closing ceremony;
- the medical service and anti-doping controls;
- security;
- insurance; promotion of Francophone Games on its national territory;
- accreditation;
- ticketing;
- the Games protocol.

Six (6) months before the start of the Games, the CNJF provides the documents concerning the customs clearance procedure and guarantees transport of the works from the place or arrival in the host state to the cultural site.

15. Supporting file for cultural competitions

1. Each participant, regardless of the discipline for which they wish to register, must submit to the Application Manager (to be uploaded on the Francophone Games website) and to the regional juries when they make their tour, different information and communication files, to be able to take part in the 2017 Games.

After the pre-selection stages organised by the states and governments, during the on-line registration step of pre-selected candidates, the Application Manager uploads these documents to the Francophone Games website, depending on the discipline for which the artist has been pre-selected.

The design competitions for sustainable development and digital creation of the Francophone Games must reflect the excellence of the French-speaking world in this field and also reveal up-and-coming talents who will be detected during national and international pre-selection.

1. General conditions of participation

a) Only member states and governments or observers of the OIF are authorised to register competitors in the design competitions for sustainable development and digital creation, according to the conditions defined by the International Committee for the Francophone Games (CIJF).

The design competitions for sustainable development and digital creation must be a prestigious event allowing young designers on the threshold of a promising career to have their talent recognised internationally.

b) Participants must:

  • be nationals of member states or governments, or OIF observers;
  • have the nationality of the state they represent, either through birth or through naturalisation obtained at least six (6) months before the Games, subject to the conditions stipulated in Item 5 of the statutes of the CIJF and the Rules of the Games which cover entries;
  • be over 18 (born on 1st January 1999 and earlier) and under 35 (born on 1st January 1982 and later).

c) Each participating state or government must register its delegation in compliance with the schedule defined in the document “Registration guide” in point “II. Presentation of the different steps in the pre-registration and registration process” and point “V. Provisional calendar”.

d) Each participating state or government is responsible for the international transport and insurance for the equipment and works of the artists/designers.
2. Programme

The 8th Francophone Games comprise two official design competitions: for sustainable development and digital creation.

3. Organisation of competitions

a) The design competitions for sustainable development and digital creation are governed by the rules stipulated by the CIJF.

b) The design competitions for sustainable development and digital creation lead to a ranking. The material and technical requirements for the organisation and running of each competition are defined by the CIJF in liaison with the CNJF.

c) The CNJF undertakes to provide the professional screening and/or exhibition conditions corresponding to each discipline.

d) The CNJF sends the technical file of the stages or production sites to the states or governments (1) one year before the Games start.

e) For screening and exhibitions, the CNJF must provide a “stage area” and an “exhibition area” in working order. A general rehearsal shall be planned for. Each competitor in the same discipline has access to the “stage area” for the same length of time. In addition, rehearsal venues shall be provided to groups until the day of their event.

f) The works for the design competitions for sustainable development and digital creation must reach the site of the Games in Abidjan two (2) months (21st May 2017) before the Games start.

g) Competition organisation is directly controlled by the CIJF.
4. Selection and number of competitors

In reference to point II of the “Registration Guide”, pre-selection and selection phases take place in three steps:

a) In each event for which they are registered, states and governments will draw up a pre-selection consisting of three competitors (or groups). The designers, who must present works of professional quality, shall be pre-selected according to the specific conditions of each state.

b) A jury committee consisting of the CIJF, the Digital Francophone Department (DFN) and the French-speaking Institute for Sustainable Development (IFDD) will receive and view, via Internet, the works of designers pre-selected by the states and governments and/or travel to the registered states and governments to rank the national pre-selections, removing from the list any designers whose quality is insufficient for the event.

c) The final selection for Ivory Coast / Abidjan 2017 shall be made by the CIJF, with the backing of the DFN, the IFDD and in the presence of the CNJF, taking into consideration all competitors entered and the number of places allocated for each event.

All designers selected must be present from the start to the end of the Games.

Designers registered for a competition cannot be members of the jury appointed to judge the productions of this competition.

For each competition registered on the Games programme, the maximum number of participants, per discipline and per delegation, is set as follows:

b) The states and governments will submit the final and named entries of their delegation to the events in which they will have competitors – closing date 31st March 2017. No name changes will be accepted after 31st March 2017.

c) Each competition shall only be kept on the Games programme if at least fifteen (15) competitors or groups have entered.

d) If a competition has to be cancelled, the CIJF shall immediately inform each state or government concerned.

6. International juries

a) For each competition, the CIJF makes up a jury composed of five (5) personalities of different nationalities from the artistic field. The President of the jury is appointed by the CIJF from these five (5) members.

b) The list of winners of each competition is established by the jury in view of the specific rules drawn up by the CIJF and in accordance with assessment criteria instituted by the Presidents and members of each jury.

c) The CIJF delegate must be present at the competitions and jury sittings. This delegate is not entitled to vote.

d) The jury writes a detailed report of each final deliberation and the ranking of the five (5) finalists (at least) in each discipline, after the Games.

e) The CIJF remains custodian of each jury’s deliberations after the Games.
7. Medal ceremony - Ranking

For each design competition, gold, silver and bronze medals and a certificate are awarded. These ceremonies are an integral part of the event in accordance with the conditions for each discipline. They take place on the competition site.

Special prizes and mentions may be put forward by the members of the jury under the guise of the CIJF.

The award ceremony, during which medals shall be awarded, must take place in compliance with the following directives:

- Medals are only awarded by qualified personalities appointed by the CIJF in agreement with the President of the CNJF and its protocol division.

- Award ceremonies are an integral part of a competition’s time management. They must be programmed to take place in the presence of the audience. The personalities contacted to award the medals must be informed in advance. Their presence at the competition site must be verified by the protocol division.

- Competitors ranked first, second and third take position, in uniform, on the podium opposite the Official Stands, while the Games’ hymn is played; the winner is slightly higher than the second place to his/her right and third place to his/her left. The winner’s flag is raised on the central mast and the flags of the second and third positions are raised on two neighbouring masts to the right and left of the central mast, facing the arena. While a shortened version of the national anthem of the winner’s state or government is played, the three competitors and spectators turn to the flags.

At the end of the competition, a gala evening, known as “winners’ night”, presents the winners of the cultural competitions and their works.

This ceremony is official and reserved in priority to delegations and participants of the Francophone Games. The public is also admitted.

8. Claims - Disputes

The international jury is responsible for ruling on all technical matters which lead to a claim.

The CIJF is the supreme body in charge of settling all cases not covered by the powers of the international jury.

A case may be brought to the CIJF by:

- the President of the CNJF or his delegate,
- the Head of one of the delegations.

Its decisions cannot be appealed.

In order for a claim to be examined and deliberated by the CIJF, it must be submitted in writing within twenty four (24) hours after the event, and state the decision or the dispute giving rise to the claim in question.
9. Workshops - Activities

Workshops and activities are designed to be friendly forums for meeting and exchange between artists, cultural and sport competitors, and between them and the public.

Several formulas are possible:

• workshop/creation where the artist/designer can work alone or with other artists/designers, in an area open to the public designed for this purpose;

• workshop/activity where artists can present productions, techniques, their artistic approach in the form of conferences/demonstrations, film screenings, shows, etc.

All other proposals may appear in this activity programme. The conditions are established in agreement between the CNJF and the CIJF.

The selected artists must take part in the activity programmes and workshops planned in their area of speciality.

They may be asked to take part, free of charge, in exceptional events organised as part of the Games.

10. Pay

Competitors may not receive any fees throughout the duration of the Games, both within the framework of the competition and the activities, workshops or any other service they may have accepted to provide of their own free will under the guise of their state or government.

Artists/designers are permitted to accept any contract they may be offered during the Games, for a commitment after the Games.

They must mention, in this case, their selection or reward obtained during the Francophone Games.

The juries of the official competitions receive an indemnity from the CNJF, which will be established after consultation with the CIJF. The conditions shall be submitted prior to final acceptance by each official concerned.
11. Ownership and copyrights (see article 20.2 of the Statutes of the CIJF)

The works presented during the competitions, as well as those produced during the workshops within the framework of the Games, remain the property of their creator.

Taking part in the Games implies that the artists and designers forego payment by the CIJF and the CNJF of copyrights or other fees under their participation in the Games, from the moment they are selected by the CIJF and then during and after the Games.

The organising state or government is responsible for ensuring that national legislation or obligations in terms of copyrights on their territory are complied with.

Any photographic reproduction of a work or part of a work for commercial purposes must be the subject of a special agreement between the artist and the requesting party.

However, the CIJF reserves the right to use, for promotional purposes, photographic and filmed and published reproductions of works presented at the competitions. It is agreed that the artists/designers and their works are identified in documents printed by the CIJF and/or the CNJF.

The competing athlete, artist or designer authorises the CIJF and the CNJF to record on any audio/visual medium its performances carried out within the framework of the regular competition programme (sports competitions, cultural competitions, development activities, ceremonies) and the events programme as well as during the selection phases, without time limit.

12. Professional outcome and repercussions

To improve the quality of artistic performances produced at the Games, a prior selection shall be made in each state and government.

Taking part in the Francophone Games, if it is not the continuation of an artistic career which has already started, may be the beginning of a promising artistic career.

This is why the CIJF and the OIF take steps with public and para-public bodies and private companies to promote the works of winners of cultural competitions (participation in a tour or festival, participation in courses, exhibition in a museum or gallery, possibility to have their work published, etc.).

The Diversity and Cultural Development Department shall support, via its different programmes and particularly the “circulation of artists and works” programme, emerging states and governments and shall thus assist artists’ access to professional networks.

These possibilities are suggested and are not compulsory for any party. It is up to the artist or group of artists to follow up the offer presented to it through the CIJF. The final agreement, if there is one, ties the beneficiary (artist) and those responsible (bodies, ministries, federations, private companies, etc.) for the offer.

Members of the jury shall be chosen from personalities who can contribute to promoting the value of the artists.
13. Reasons for disqualification

Any deviation from the general conditions of participation, the eligibility conditions or the obligations stipulated in the specific rules of each competition, as well as non-compliance with delivery time-frames for the works may lead to the CIJF disqualifying the artist or the group.

14. CNJF obligations

The purpose of the CNJF is to conduct the Francophone Games in compliance with the rules stipulated by the CIJF, notably by organising:

- reception, accommodation and catering;
- local transport;
- a media centre;
- the events, including opening ceremony, winners’ gala ceremony and closing ceremony;
- the medical service and anti-doping controls;
- security;
- insurances on the territory;
- promotion on its national territory;
- accreditation;
- ticketing;
- the protocol.

Six (6) months before the start of the Games, the CNJF provides the documents concerning the customs clearance procedure and guarantees transport of the designs from the place of arrival in the host state to the cultural site.

15. Supporting file

1. Each participant, regardless of the discipline for which they wish to register, must submit to the Application Manager (to be uploaded on the Francophone Games website) and to the design experts when they make their tour, different information and communication files, to be able to take part in the 2017 Games.

After the pre-selection stages organised by the states and governments, during the on-line registration step of pre-selected candidates, the Application Manager uploads these folders onto the Francophone Games website, depending on the discipline for which the artist has been pre-selected.

Reminder and context

The design for sustainable development competition, under the design competitions, was introduced for the first time on the official programme of the 7th edition of the Francophone Games in France/Nice 2013.

The design for sustainable development competition is on the official programme of the 8th Francophone Games in Ivory Coast/Abidjan 2017.

Rules and principles of selection for the Ivory Coast/Abidjan 2017 edition

Rules

The design for sustainable development competition of the 8th Francophone Games is organised according to the rules stipulated by the CIJF.

20 selected designers/innovators (individuals or groups), men or women, aged 18 to 35 years on the date of the competition, shall compete in each discipline. Each group cannot consist of any more than three (3) persons, aged 18 to 35 years on the date of the competition.

Organisation of the competition is the technical responsibility of the President of the “Design for sustainable development” jury appointed by the CIJF and in agreement with the IFDD.
Pre-selection and selection

3 groups of designers/innovators (or individuals) are pre-selected by the state or government from a list established by the latter. A pre-ranking is established by a regional committee of experts formed by the CIJF and the IFDD.

The ranking and then the final selection for Ivory Coast/Abidjan 2017 is made jointly by the CIJF and the IFDD in the presence of the CNJF, based on all competitors who entered (see chapter “general conditions”).

The designer(s) must be present throughout the entire Francophone Games and take part in each discipline.

Rules for the design for sustainable development competition

The designs for sustainable development must concern innovative and entrepreneurial projects in favour of sustainable development and creating jobs in the green sector. Green sector jobs are defined as jobs in farming, industry, services and administration which contribute to preserving or restoring environmental quality. They contribute to reducing the use of energy, raw materials and water thanks to yield improvement strategies; they contribute to reducing carbon emissions, to minimising or totally avoiding all forms of waste and pollution and to protecting and restoring eco-systems and biodiversity.

The designs presented at the competition shall be presented in the form of an enterprise creation project, including a simple business model supported with arguments and accompanied with visuals.

They may be presented with or without patented material: invention, prototype.

The designs must be created in the 24 months leading up to the Games.

The designs must not have already been awarded within the framework of an international competition.
Specific Rules

Conditions of participation

- Genre: Design for sustainable development

  The competition shall take place in two stages:

  1. Staffing an information and exchange kiosk; presentation of the project to the general public.
     - Each participating team must staff an information and exchange kiosk concerning its project.
     - Each team will have a 10 m$^2$ space which it can arrange as it wants. The jury will establish a list of the 5 best projects which will be entered into the final.
  2. The 5 best teams will compete in a final where each team will have 10 minutes to make a dynamic and original presentation of its entrepreneurial design project for sustainable development, in front of the jury and the audience.

  The purpose of this presentation is:

  - to inform on, raise awareness of and advocate sustainable development.
  - Candidates will be invited to explain the environmental, social, economic and cultural issues specific to their country of origin, presented or covered by the entrepreneurial project;
  - to convince the jury that the entrepreneurial project is innovative, economically viable, socially decent and that it contributes to preserving or restoring environmental quality, with respect for cultural diversity.

  This presentation must be original and can be an oral presentation with images, photos and videos, or an artistic presentation (tale, song, dance, music, etc.).

  The candidate or group is entitled to have an escort. The escort cannot intervene in the presentations scored by the jury during the information and exchange kiosk or during the final.

- The designs/innovations presented must be very similar or identical to those presented during the pre-selection and selection phases.
- The designs/innovations must be presented exclusively in French and must comply with the following set theme: “Design and innovation for sustainable development”.
- The designs/innovations presented must not be a copy (partially or in full) of an existing work, project or design, or made by a third party.
- The group of designers/innovators can only present one design/innovation/project.
- The designs/innovations must be accompanied with an on-screen presentation (PowerPoint or audio/video clip) or presented on a written document (transcribed on a board during the Games) highlighting the practical and useful aspect of the project and the potential and strategy for development/distribution in view of the targeted public.
- The group of designers/innovators must attach to the registration form (at the selection phase) its CV and a detailed and consistent portfolio demonstrating its production and explaining its approach. The product of design/innovation must be presented to the regional juries during the pre-selection phases. The design must be accompanied with a digital presentation (PowerPoint or audio/video clip) or paper (written) presentation highlighting the practical and useful aspect of the project and the potential and strategy for development/distribution in view of the targeted public.
- The design/innovation project must arrive two months before the Games start (21st May 2017), accompanied with an on-screen presentation (PowerPoint or audio-video clip) or presented on a written document (transcribed on a board during the Games) highlighting the practical and useful aspect of the product and the potential and strategy for development/distribution in view of the targeted public. If the entrepreneurial project for sustainable development is based on a technical innovation, the CIJF strongly encourages the candidate or group to have it patented.
- NB: the design/innovation will only be revealed to the general public at the time of the Games by the participating group (or individual).
- Maximum volume: the project presentation material and the product of design/innovation must fit in a maximum 3 m$^3$ crate.
Specific Rules

Material and technical conditions required in the specifications

The CIJF and the CNJF reserve the right to decide on the competition programme. It is public.

The designs will be presented in front of a jury and will be professionally exhibited in a public place for the duration of the Games so that the designs are shown to their best.

The CNJF will provide designers with media suitable for their presentation:
- a 10 m² stand,
- computer with screen and projector,
- written presentation board.

The CNJF is responsible for the arrangement. It is in charge of receiving and insuring the design/innovation as soon as it arrives on the site of the Games and until its departure.

The cost of transport and insurance of the design to the site of the Games and its return are to be borne by the participating state or government. The latter must guarantee the arrival of the design on the site at least two months before the start of the Games (21st May 2017).

The CNJF sends customs formalities no later than 6 months before the start of the Games.

The designer or an official representative of the delegation, duly mandated, must be present when the work is packed for reshipping and take part in wrapping the work to avoid any disputes.

Winners must give the CIJF and the CNJF authorisation to advertise the projects; the presentations of winning projects can be viewed on the Websites of the CIJF and the CNJF.
Jury and assessment criteria

The jury consists of five personalities from different nationalities from the milieu of sustainable development.

The assessment criteria are based on:

- the relevance of the project presented in relation with sustainable development;
- compliance with the chosen theme;
- degree of technological, scientific, economic or social innovation;
- quality of the presentations (structure, hardware/technology used, motivation/vision, oral expression, etc.)
- the product’s socio-economic profitability (or its potential);
- the creation of green sector jobs and/or the degree of added value in terms of sustainable development.

Specific assessment criteria are based on scoring the two parts of the competition: the information and exchange kiosk and the final presentation, according to a weighting which still has to be defined.

The scoring grid will be based on the “Sustainable development analysis grid” developed by the Francophone Games and the Eco-consulting Department of the University of Quebec in Chicoutimi.

Prize

- 1st prize: Gold medal
- 2nd prize: Silver medal
- 3rd prize: Bronze medal

Technical and financial partners may offer sponsorship to help the winning team fulfil their business plan or start their business.
Reminder and context

The digital creation competition (audio/visual performance) under the development activities was introduced for the first time on the official programme of the 7th edition of the Francophone Games in France/Nice 2013.

This discipline is on the official programme of the 8th Francophone Games Ivory Coast/Abidjan 2017 and fits in with the spirit of this edition, which is modern, young and encourages people to get involved in matters of concern. It concerns young designers from French-speaking states and governments. It will also come under the missions and themes developed by the OIF.

Rules and principles of selection for the Ivory Coast/Abidjan 2017 edition

Rules

The digital creation in audio-visual performance competition of the 8th Francophone Games is organised according to the rules stipulated by the CIJF. The CIJF cultural expert and the President of the jury appointed for this purpose have collaborated to write and apply these rules.

20 selected designers/artists (individuals or groups), men or women, aged from 18 to 35 years old, compete in this event.

Organisation of the competition is the technical responsibility of the President of the digital design (audio/visual performance) jury appointed by the CIJF in consultation with the DFN.

Pre-selection and selection

The designer/artist (or group) is chosen by its state or government from a list drawn up by the latter and validated by a regional committee of experts formed by CIJF, the DFN and the Diversity and Cultural Development Department of the OIF.

Final selection for Ivory Coast/Abidjan 2017 is made jointly by the CIJF, the DFN and the Diversity and Cultural Development Department of the OIF, in the presence of the CNJF, based on all competitors who have entered (see chapter “general conditions”).

The designer(s) must be present throughout the duration of the Games.
Rules of the digital creation in audio-visual performance competition

The designs must be recent creations, created in the 24 months leading up to the Games.

The digital creation in audio-visual performance competition consists in creating an audio/visual work using digital technologies, of which the sound and image must be equally important. This competition is a performance in the sense that this design must be able to be rendered, arranged and improved live on a stage. The visual animation is achieved at the time of the competition, by creating or manipulating images in real-time in front of the audience, in synchronisation with the music/sound creation and may involve the use of generative technologies. This multimedia performance may include musicians, actors or dancers on stage.

Digital creation in audio/visual performance

Conditions of participation
- Candidates must accept to put on an event for one night during the Games period.
- The works and designs presented must not be a (full) copy of an existing work or design, or made by a third party.
- Participants will use their own materials (images, sounds, etc.) to create their works. Only the deadline is set. The artists are free in their artistic choices in order to promote greater diversity.

Organisation of the competition
The competition shall take place in two stages:

The elimination/qualifying stage
- During the Francophone Games, over a maximum of seven days (or nights), candidates must present their creation, one by one, for each category, by projecting them on a giant screen (in a closed room or open-air room) in front of a jury and open to the public.
- Each participant (individual or group) shall have 30 minutes to prepare their material for their presentation (available material) and a maximum of 15 minutes to present their creation in the form of a performance and thus convince the jury. After the performance, each participant shall discuss with the jury for ten minutes to explain their approach and, if necessary, receive comments and opinions for future performances.

The final phase
- The final shall take place on a stage (closed or open-air) and will be open to the public and will allow for the presentation of three finalist creations (individuals or groups) in the digital creation in audio-visual performance competition. Each candidate can, if necessary, improve the performance made during the first stage of the competition by taking on board the comments and opinions expressed by the jury.
- They will have a maximum of 15 minutes each to put on their performance and convince the jury of the relevance of their creation.

Awards
The winning designers/artists or groups receive, in order, the gold medal, the silver medal and the bronze medal.
